Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-27, 29-30, 32 are allowed.

The following statements are the examiner's reason for the allowances of the claims.

Independent claim 1, while the prior art of record disclose of an audio system for use with an audio source that provides an input audio signal, the system comprising: an acoustic source to combine an identification signal with the input audio signal to produce an output audio signal, the identification signal identifying the acoustic source and a remote control device, to control the acoustic source to receive the output audio signal and to distinguish the audio source form other acoustic sources based on the identification signal and to distinguish the acoustic source from other sources based on the identification signal.

However, none of the art of record disclose of the identification signal being different with respect to each other source identification signal for identifying the source and the remote control device, to control the acoustic source to receive the output audio signal and to distinguish the audio source form the other acoustic sources based on the identification signal being different with respect to each other source identification signal.

Independent claim 19, while the prior art of record disclose of the method of controlling an acoustic source arranged for outputting an audio signal, the method comprising: combining an identification signal with an input audio signal to produce an output audio signal, the identification signal identifying the acoustic source and receiving at a remote control device arranged for control of the acoustic source, the output audio signal; processing, by the remote control device, the received output audio signal to identify the acoustic source and to distinguish the acoustic source from other acoustic source sources based on the identification signal; and transmitting a control signal from the remote control device to the identified acoustic source.

However, none of the art of record disclose of the remote control device arranged for control of the acoustic source, the output audio signal; and another output signal that includes identification data for identifying another acoustic source.

In dependent claim 27, while, the prior art of record disclosed of an acoustic source for use in an audio system which includes an audio source that provides an input audio signal, other acoustic sources and a remote control device that controls the acoustic sources responsive to respective an-output audio signals provided by each of the acoustic sources, the acoustic source comprising: circuitry to combine an identification signal with the input audio signal to produce one of the output audio signals, the identification signal identifying the acoustic source and distinguishing the acoustic source from the other acoustic sources; and circuitry to provide the one output audio signal to the remote control device.

However, none of the art of record disclose of the identification signal received from the remote control device and identifying the acoustic source and distinguishing the acoustic source from the other acoustic sources based on the identification signal being different from an identification signal included in another output audio signal.

Independent claim 29, while, the prior art of record disclose of a remote control device for controlling an output audio signal provided by an acoustic source, the acoustic source combining an identification signal with an input audio signal to produce the output audio signal, the identification signal identifying the acoustic source and the remote control device comprising: circuitry, including an antenna, to receive the output audio signal; circuitry, including a processor, to process the received output audio signal to identify the acoustic source and to distinguish the acoustic source from other acoustic sources based on the identification signal and circuitry, including a transmitter, to transmit a control signal to the identified acoustic source.

However, none of the art of record disclose of the circuitry, including an antenna, to receive the output audio signal along with another audio signal including a source identification signal to identify another acoustic source.

Independent claim 32, while, the prior art of record disclose of a remote control device for controlling an output audio signal provided by an acoustic source, the acoustic source combining an identification signal with an input and the audio signal to produce the output audio signal, the identification signal identifying the acoustic source, the remote control device comprising: circuitry, including an antenna, to receive the output audio signal; circuitry, including a processor that stores data and circuitry, including a transmitter, to transmit a control signal to the identified acoustic source

However, none of the art of record disclose of the remote control device comprising: including a processor that stores data to differentiate identification signals of respective acoustic appliances, to process the received output audio signal to identify the acoustic source and to distinguish the acoustic source from other acoustic sources based on the identification signal.
